'Laser Welded' segments. We have less segment loss than any company that we know of. How do we know this? Simple, we rebuild core bits. We see them all and we see why they lose segments. We could tell the manufacturer what they are doing wrong, but we know that education is expensive. We are in business to sell our products right? The point to all this is, our product performs even if it is a 'value' core bit like this one. When you have 'users' not caring what happens, misuse, rough use, or neglect, this is a bit that will take it and your buying for half the price. In this day and time that is very comforting and very easy on the pocket book. This bit will use the extensions just like all our other barrels.
